What's In It For Me

This course emphasizes the importance of performing effective product demonstrations based on the types of information about the products and services to be presented in beauty care industry. Learners become effective in performing product demonstrations when they apply competently the different methods of demonstration while probing for customer's requirements using effective communication skills. The course is designed to include all essential skills and competencies in this area of expertise. SOQ incorporates practical learning including demonstration and hands-on practice with focus of enabling learners effectively transfer their learning and apply in the workplace within the beauty & wellness environment.
